Förslag:

If you haven't seen Psycho, go and rent it fast (quickly). It is so good! It is a classic horror movie (film) directed by Alfred Hitchcock. The film is about a young woman Marion, played by the American actress Janet Leigh. One evening, she drives towards a town called Fairvale. In her /hand/bag she has money she has stolen. It is dark and it is raining and she must drive slowly.
 At last she stops at the Bates Motel. She is the only guest. Soon Norman Bates, who owns the motel, comes (arrives). (Anthony Perkins plays him very well.) He lives with his mother in a big house behind the motel. Marion decides to stay one night at the motel. She feels tired but before she goes to bed she takes a shower (she showers). She doesn't notice, but someone carefully opens the bathroom door.
 Hitchcock shot the film (filmed it) in bla and white because he thought it would be too horrible (awful) in colour.

4B Behind bars

Pre-reading

1

Förslag:

De flesta cirkusdjur lever i små burar på platser där man inte kan rengöra burarna eller ge djuren tillräckligt att äta. Elefanter kan stå fastkedjade och deras ungar tas snabbt ifrån dem.

De utsätts ofta för stark hetta eller kyla. Djuren är ofta sjuka och på cirkusarna finns inga veterinärer .

För att få djuren att utföra sina konster torterar man dem. Man använder hakar, elchocker, piskor och basebollträn. Djuren förses med munkorg så att de inte kan försvara sig och ibland tar man t.o.m. bort deras tänder eller drogar dem.

Förslag:

Glamping, lyxcamping, är en ny trend. Den innebär camping under mycket bekväma former.

De verkliga campingentusiasterna tycker kanske att detta inte är riktig camping – leva nära naturen och utan bekvämlighet. I British Columbia i Kanada finns ett ställe The Clayoquot Wilderness Resort, som erbjuder lyxcamping. En "glampare" kan njuta av tält med elektricitet, lyxiga sängkläder, persiska mattor mm i ett "soft" äventyr i vildmarken.

More 5 Arrowhead Finger

1A

Förslag:

A long time ago there was a girl of the Penobscot tribe. She knew the plants that cured the sick. She gathered herbs in the forest and people called her Gatherer. One day, some Maguak warriors captured her. They lit a fire. The warriors said, "Let's see how brave she is," and they stuck her hand into the fire. She showed no pain or fear. When they stopped they said her fingers looked like arrowheads. So they called her Arrowhead Finger. When the warriors were asleep the girl took a root and rubbed it on her fingers and in the morning her fingers were healed. In the morning the warriors saw that her fingers were not blistered. They said, "She must have some medicine." But the girl swallowed the root.

In the village, Arrowhead was adopted by an old couple.

Two old men called Sol and Abe are sitting on a park bench. They are talking about baseball. Sol wonders if there is baseball in heaven. Abe says he doesn't know.

They make a deal. The one who dies first will come back and tell the other if there's baseball in heaven. They shake on it. A few months later Sol dies.

A couple of weeks later, Abe is sitting alone on the bench. He hears someone whisper. It's Sol's ghost.

Abe asks if there's baseball in heaven. Sol says he's got good news and bad news. Abe says he wants the good news first. And Sol says that there is baseball in heaven. Then Abe wonders what could be bad enough to ruin that. Then Sol tells Abe that he's pitching on Friday.

One night the train arrived. A group of twenty people were hiding in the dark. Joaquín, their leader, told them to climb on to the top of the wagon.

The train pulled out of the station. Rain began to pour. The migrants made capes of trash bags.

The train slowed down. People were running alongside the train. Joaquín kicked away people who tried to jump on board. It's them or us, he said.

Pedro felt tired but it would be dangerous to sleep. Suddenly the train jolted violently. A boy was thrown to the side. His friend managed to grab hold of his shirt.

Amir and Hassan grow up in Afghanistan's capital, Kabul, in the 1960s. They are best friends but they live in different worlds.

Amir's father is an important man but Hassan's father is Amir's father's servant. Hassan always defends Amir but one day Hassan is threatened by a gang and Amir lets him down.

When Russian troops invade Afghanistan, Amir and his father leave their home and go to California. Amir thinks that he is free from the past. But he can't leave the memory of Hassan behind.

It's a book about historic events never told before.

Back out!

I began wriggling my way back along the tunnel as quickly as I could ...

Feeling ashamed

Once outside I sat down on a stone and lit a cigarette.

Getting ready to go in

I went up to the ridge. There, among the bushes, was the entrance. I looked around.

Inside the den

The torch only cast a dim glow in the darkness. I wriggled slowly along the tunnel ...

Long period of studies

It was more than six months since I had arrived in the Keewatin Barrens ...

Meeting the wolves

After about two and a half yards, the tunnel suddenly turned sharply upwards and then left.

One more task

But there was still one thing left for me to study – the inside of a wolf's den.

Waiting for the attack
